Four Are Injured When Car Upsets Near Ulster Park

Long Island Woman Taken to Hospital With Fractured Hip and Pelvis

Four persons were injured Saturday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on Route 9W between Esopus and Ulster Park, state police at Highland reported.

Considerable injuries were sustained by Mrs. Maudie Gordon, 51, of Bellrose, L. I. She was admitted to Kingston Hospital with a fractured pelvis and possible fractured hip, state police said. Her condition is "fair," hospital authorities reported today.

Mrs. Gordon's son and daughter, Loren J. Gordon, Jr., and Miss Anita Gordon, 28, both also of Bellrose, were treated at the hospital for lacerations, and Mrs. Helen Walek of the Flatbush road, Kingston, was treated for multiple contusions and abrasions of her leg, according to the police report.

The accident occurred as the Gordon car was traveling north and attempted to pass the automobile ahead, state police said. This other automobile at the same time pulled out to pass a third vehicle and forced the Gordon automobile off the west side of the highway, where it struck a small embankment and overturned, troopers said. The other two vehicles were not identified. Miss Gordon was driving the Gordon car at the time, state police said.

Coplon Trial Rescued

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The Judith Coplon espionage trial was recessed today to give attorneys an opportunity to prepare written arguments on a legal spurt. The question is whether the government must produce the full text of 22 secret F.B.I. reports, as demanded by the defense. It could have crucial importance in this and future cases. The government contends it should be required to produce only partial texts to show that papers found in Miss Coplon's apartment were hers. A Gubichev came from official documents.

U.S. Pledges Full Power For Peace

Western Europe Given Assurance by Truman and Marshall; Thanks Are Voiced

Praise Is High

President Pays Glowing Tribute to Former Secretary

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The United States has pledged western Europe its entire "strength and resources" to the maintenance of world freedom, peace and democracy. The solemn assurance came last night from President Truman and a comparatively new elder statesman, General George C. Marshall, architect of the European Recovery Program.

A "black tie" dinner in the Carlton Hotel, a few blocks from the White House, was the setting for an historic dinner at which they spoke.

Spokesman for 16 Marshall Plan countries voiced, too, their thanks for American aid in their hour of great need. The President of the United States assured them that the fight for lasting peace has only just begun.

The occasion was a celebration honoring Marshall, whom the President called a "soldier and a patriot" and one "of the greatest Americans of all time."

A trifle embarrassed by the praise of so many with whom he has labored in the cause of peace, the tall, gray-haired Marshall called in his talk for prompt approval of the North Atlantic Pact.

It was the second anniversary of Marshall's historic remarks at Harvard University which gave birth to the program under which the United States offered its economic strength to help revive free nations.

General Marshall, looking fit after relaxing in his retirement at Leesburg, Va., flushed as Mr. Truman told the dinner guests:

"The nations represented here owe as much to General Marshall, in war and in peace, as they owe to any man in the world."

Ambassadors and ministers from each of the participating nations took up the President's words and heaped high their praise.

Marshall, who turned from a military career as strategist in the allied victory of World War II, to that of a statesman's secretary of state, solemnly assured the spokesmen of the 16 Marshall Plan nations:

"A feeling of security is essential to the future of Europe and the world. Improved economy helps tremendously to that end, but in the light of conditions as

Police Seek Writer of Worthless Checks

Local police issued a general teletype message Saturday bearing the description of a man who had passed four bogus $35 checks under the name of C. Naban.

Another message held by the police indicated that the same man, signing the name E. Naban, had passed two worthless checks last May 7 at Roselle Park, N. J.

The police here described the man as "a smooth talker" who said he had just arrived from Rhinebeck, and who gave a fictitious address on Fairview avenue. He was described as between 30 and 35 years old, blue eyes and light brown or blond hair, and about six feet tall. He wore a light brown sport shirt with short sleeves.

The checks were issued on the State of New York National Bank.

Man Killed by Train; 'Suicide' Is Verdict

Port Jervis, N. Y., June 6 (AP)—An unidentified man was killed by an Erie train four miles east of here last night. Coroner Charles R. March gave a verdict of suicide.

The engine crew of the train said they saw the man lying across the tracks but were unable to stop. There were no identification marks in the clothing. In a wallet police found a rambling note in which was written: "I have $1,500,000,000, please see that Joseph Lundberg gets it." On the other side of the note were the names, "Joseph Lundberg, Harvey, Mass., and Mrs. Anna Lundberg, 619 Newfield, Bridgeport, Conn."

The body was brought to Port Jervis.

Will Speak

REV. F. E. MCGUIRE

The Protestant Church School Council of Kingston will present the Rev. Floyd E. McGuire, founder of the Eastchester Presbyterian Church and youth work director, as guest speaker at its meeting Wednesday night, 7:30 o'clock, in the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue. His topic will be "The Importance of Parents to a Church School."

At the present time, the Rev. Mr. McGuire is pastor of the Larchmont Avenue Presbyterian Church at Larchmont. His congregation numbers more than 1,900 members. He is the founder of the Eastchester Presbyterian Church.

During the summer of 1931 the Rev. Mr. McGuire assumed as a project the operation of a summer Bible school in an area near the city of New York. The school was so successful that in the fall it became necessary to rent two stores and continue with a Sunday school program. Within two years it was obvious that a church had to be established and the Eastchester Presbyterian Church was founded. The congregation today has its own modern building and is an active force in its locality.

The Rev. Mr. McGuire received his bachelor of arts degree from Otterbein College. He was director of young people's work and assistant to the pastor of the First United Brethren Church, Canton, O., from 1925 to 1928. He attended the University of Chicago from 1928 to 1930 and received his master of arts degree in 1936 from New York University.

The Rev. Mr. McGuire attended the Biblical Seminary in New York city where he received his bachelor of sacred theology in 1941.

The speaker has been minister of the Larchmont Avenue Presbyterian Church since 1940. He is a member of Rotary International, University Club of Larchmont and Theta Club of New York city.

All church school staff members, teachers, prospective teachers and interested parents in the community are invited to hear the Rev. Mr. McGuire.

Representatives on the council include delegates from First Baptist, First Presbyterian, First Dutch Reformed, Fair Street Reformed, St. James Methodist, Clinton Avenue Methodist, Trinity Methodist, St. Paul's Lutheran, Immanuel Lutheran, Lutheran Church of the Redeemer and St. John's Episcopal Churches.

Buffalo Worker Says U. S. Desired To Appease Spy He Helped Trap

Labor Law Debate On Modified Bill Starts in Senate

Odds Against Enactment of Truman Measure; Factions Backing Different Forms

Washington, June 6 (AP)—The Senate starts today a labor law debate keyed to President Truman's campaign pledge to get rid of the Taft-Hartley Act.

A month ago the House blocked the first big drive in Congress to redeem Mr. Truman's promise.

Now that the hot political issue is before the Senate, it's there in the form of the administration's bill to repeal the T-H Law and replace it with a slightly modified version of the old Wagner Act.

Again, the odds are all against enactment of the Truman measure, despite its backing by union leaders. In fact, very few in Congress are talking any more about either (1) outright repeal or (2) keeping the Taft-Hartley Law practically intact.

In the Senate, for example, the strongest opposing factions are backing different compromises.

Conferences Planned

In advance of today's Senate session (11 a. m., E.S.T.), key Democrats and Republicans arranged for separate strategy powwows.

The Senate Republican Policy Committee planned to survey the situation (8:30 a. m., E.S.T.), preparatory to a meeting of all the G.O.P. senators tomorrow.

Democratic members of the Senate Labor Committee scheduled a huddle (time uncertain) to size up the outlook from their party's standpoint.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), the committee chairman and co-sponsor of the administration bill, was to open the Senate debate. It is expected to last at least two weeks and it is certain to be stormy.

There are three main groups in the picture at this point. The first is made up of a few Democratic senators who still are plugging for the administration bill.

The second group is composed of a majority of the Democrats, including the party leaders, and a few Republicans. They are supporting a compromise version of the administration bill which includes a few provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law. Senator Douglas (D-Ill.), a member of the group, calls it an attempt "to harness the realities" of the situation.

In the long run, that second group is expected to get the support of the first.

The third group appears at this point to include most of the Senate's 42 Republicans and at least a dozen southern Democrats. That coalition is backing a G.O.P.-written substitute for the administration bill.

The substitute was drafted by Republican Senators Taft (Ohio), Donnell (Mo.) and Smith (N. J.). It would make 28 changes in the Taft-Hartley law, but its sponsors say that none of them would alter the basic provisions of the law.

In none of the three main groups is there 100 per cent unanimity. And in some cases the differences within the groups may be great enough to cause certain members to switch from one group to another.

But at the outset of the debate, group number three—the coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats in favor of keeping most of the T-H law—appears to have a pretty good edge.

Will Seek Cabinet

Canton, June 6 (AP)—Yen Hsi-han, China's new premier, said today he would try to form a non-partisan "war" cabinet to continue resistance to the Communists.

Yet returned here today from Formosa where he conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, retired president of China. The premier said he hoped to include both Kuomintang (government party) members and non-party members in the cabinet. He said he hoped his cabinet could bolster the sagging financial condition of Nationalist China. Yen, an old warlord himself, said he hoped also to raise army pay.

Gates Is Denied Bail by Appeals Court; 500 Picket

Orderly Demonstration Is Made Against Medina Decision of Jailing Three Persons

New York, June 6 (AP)—While more than 500 pickets protested outside, an Appeals Court today denied bail to John Gates, editor of the official Communist Daily Worker.

Gates, one of 11 defendants at the federal conspiracy trial, was jailed Friday by Federal Judge Harold R. Medina on a contempt charge.

The Circuit of Appeals ruled unanimously that Gates was not entitled to bail. Judge Learned Hand read the decision. Judges Charles E. Clark and Jerome N. Frank concurred.

Gates' attorney said the 30-day contempt sentence would be appealed.

The pickets outside demonstrated in noisy but orderly fashion against Medina's action in jailing the three Communist leaders.

They cheered the trial defendants as they arrived for today's court session.

Defendants Eugene Dennis and Gilbert Green took a bow to the applause of the pickets as they entered the federal court building in Foley Square.

Judge Medina, target of the picket line, entered the side door of the court house without interference. He said he was "too busy" to take a look at the demonstration.

The judge added that today is his 38th wedding anniversary. The pickets, in two circles on a traffic island in Foley Square, began marching about 9:30 a. m. (E.D.T.).

Joseph Franey, Wife Fed Material to Russians Under Supervision

Washington, June 6 (AP)—A once-armed Buffalo, N. Y., rubber repairman who helped trap a wartime Russian spy testified today an F.B.I. agent told him the State Department wanted to "appease" the Red operative.

The witness, before the House Un-American Activities Committee, was Joseph J. Franey of Niagara Falls.

Franey, employed by the Hooker Electro Chemical Co., served as photographer and deliveryman. Mrs. Franey got the documents from the E.I. Aircraft Company, Buffalo, where she was librarian.

The Franey's related how they worked with the F.B.I. in feeding information to the Russians under F.B.I. supervision.

Mrs. Joseph J. Franey of Buffalo, N. Y., told the House Un-American Activities Committee that the Russian was a purchasing agent named Andrei Schevchenko.

She said he asked for highly confidential reports from the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics by code number even before they reached the library of the Buffalo war plant.

Mrs. Franey related under oath how she and her husband worked with the F.B.I. to turn over microfilm copies of some of the reports the Russian wanted.

She said the idea was to work up gradually into confidential and trusted reports so that the man could be arrested and prosecuted for having secret information in his possession.

Committee sources said the Franey's are persons of unquestioned loyalty and proved it by dealing with the Soviet spy while letting government agents know all that was going on.

The story is that they passed along pieces of information that were pieces of little value and were paid $200 for each weekly batch, plus around $60 for expenses.

Lilienthal Proposes He Be Called Chairman of A.E.C. Says Some Persons Kept, Because it Is Safer That Way

Asks Little F.B.I. Senator Would Have Group Under Chief Like Hoover

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said today that the man who drafts top secret atomic reports to Congress once was suspended because the F.B.I. questioned his loyalty.

When Hickenlooper tossed this out at a Senate-House investigation of the Atomic Energy Commission, A.E.C. Chairman David E. Lilienthal demanded that the person involved be summoned for testimony.

Hickenlooper told his congressional colleagues that the A.E.C. employee had been hired originally under an "emergency" security clearance on August 19, 1947.

It was not until March, 1948, that an F.B.I. check turned up "serious derogatory information" about the individual, Hickenlooper added.

Hickenlooper said the person involved was furnished with a statement of the charges against him and suspended in April. He was given a hearing in May, the Iowa Senator continued, before a board of three A.E.C. employees, including two scientists and a lawyer.

Although 24 persons were mentioned in the 50-page F.B.I. report as giving derogatory information about the suspended person, Hickenlooper said, only two of these were called for testimony and a third was interviewed over the phone.

He said the board called 15 witnesses suggested by the suspended employee and recommended unanimously that he be given security clearance.

This was done in what Hickenlooper described as a speedup process on June 18, 1948.

Before Hickenlooper brought this up, Lilienthal had testified that the A.E.C. is keeping some persons with doubtful records on the payroll because that seems safer than firing them. He said some got their jobs when the army was running the atomic projects.

Under questioning from a Senate-House committee, the A.E.C. chairman said he knows that atomic developments are a "primary target" for Communist spy activity.

But, Lilienthal insisted, there are some circumstances where persons with doubtful records should be kept at work.

As examples, he said some persons were cleared for work under wartime army control and have learned top atomic secrets.

With "certain precautions," he said the employment of these persons was continued. He added, however, that if they had applied for jobs after the civilian commission was in control, the A.E.C. probably would not have been willing to take "the calculated risk" the army did in hiring them.

The Senate-House committee is investigating the commission's policies and work as a result of charges by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) that there has been "incredible mismanagement" under Lilienthal. Hickenlooper demands that Lilienthal be fired.

Much of the inquiry has centered around the question of how well the commission has been guarding this country's atomic secrets.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, has suggested that Congress create a little F.B.I.—with somebody like J. Edgar Hoover in charge—to head up atomic security.

One of the grounds for Hickenlooper's complaints has been that too many persons were cleared for atomic work in "emergencies" without any advance F.B.I. investigation beyond a check of any Justice Department files that might carry information about them.

Wherry said he is disturbed not only by that but by the fact that persons given study fellowships in non-secret fields aren't investigated and that atomic project managers can overrule their security officers if they choose.

D-Day Anniversary Is Held At Famous Omaha Beach

Omaha Beach, France, June 6 (AP)—Today is D-Day plus five years.

On June 6, 1944 church bells all over the Allied world pealed to herald the invasion of Adolf Hitler's "Fortress Europe" by shock troops of the western democracies.

As they fought their way into France, soaking the sands of this beach with their blood, the prayers of freedom-loving peoples went with them.

The impossible had come to pass. The "new order, built to live a thousand years," was pierced 996 years before its promised millennium.

Today the invasion seems equally impossible. Grass grows over the old foxholes. Cattle roam the fields. French peasants till the soil where the "boys from Brooklyn" fought the "boys from Iceland" and won.

But offshore lay the rusting hulks of the ships sunk to make an artificial harbor so the Allies could land the overwhelming product of their war-factories and the men who had left peace behind them to man that product.

Inland are the battered villages that still bear witness to the fury of the onslaught.

And high on the bluff which overlooks the landing place lie the heroes who fell so their comrades could eat dinner in the rotting fabric of Hitler's empire.

Yesterday was dedicated to these men by a world which seems not to have found the universal brotherhood they so nobly sought.

Two little Norman girls—symbols of the world's hope for the future—placed wreaths where the men who died to make that future were laid to rest.

Two Americans represented the thousands of their countrymen who represented the United States five years ago. They were Brig. Gen. Joseph O'Hare, military attaché at the (Continued on Page 13, Col. 3)

Free Instruction Offered To Kingston School Pupils

For the first time in several years, free instrumental music instruction will be offered to all Kingston Public School students in summer school, July 5 to August 24, according to an announcement from the Public Schools Music Department.

Instructors will be Marilyn Morrette for band and Harry Berchin for orchestra.

Classes will be held in the high school building and will be given in the form of band and orchestra rehearsals lasting for one hour periods. Special arrangements are being made to rent instruments.

As a result of musical aptitude tests given in grades 3 to 11, recommendations for more musical activity are being made to the parents of those pupils who rated high in the test. The summer schedule will afford students an excellent opportunity to learn to play an instrument, as well as to improve technique, the instructors feel.

The tentative schedule for band and orchestra will be 8 to 9 a. m. for all beginners; 9 to 10 a. m. for all intermediate players; 10 to 11 a. m. for all advanced players; and 11 to 12 a. m. for sections of band and orchestra to be announced.

Students are being encouraged to choose the following list of instruments: Violin, viola, cello, bass viol, flute, clarinet, saxophone, bassoon, song flute, tonette, cornet or trumpet, French horn, trombone, baritone or bass horn.

Beginning drummers have been omitted from the summer schedule because of the present abundance of players on that instrument. Piano, guitar, accordion and harmonica will not be included.

Special arrangements have been made to rent instruments to the parents at a low rental for a trial period of two or three months, if they so wish. At the end of that time the parents may return the instruments without further obligation or may decide to purchase a new instrument with the rental paid applying on the purchase (Continued on Page 13, Col. 7)

ROSENDALE NEWS

School Board Is Named at Meeting

Rosendale, June 6 — School trustees and directors of the first supervisory district of Ulster county convened recently at the county court house, Kingston, with District Superintendent Clarence Johnson presiding. Arthur Wirth was elected to serve as chairman of the board.

This group will be known as the board of education of the Cooperative Services Board of the first supervisory district of Ulster. Executive officer of the board will be District Superintendent Clarence Johnson of Saugerties. A central office will be established, probably in Kingston, with a clerk on duty daily.

The formation of the Board of Cooperative Services was made on recommendation of the State Department of Education. It will provide improved conditions for the teaching staffs and a clerk benefits for the pupils in the way of dental hygienist, physical education director, visiting school nurse and others, all on a cooperative basis. There will be teaching supervisors to promote the latest and best methods in teaching the various subjects. Above all, it will unify teaching methods and coordinate the work throughout the district, and eventually throughout the state so that a pupil moving from one locality to another would continue with the same text books and teaching methods.

The first meeting of the board will be held Thursday evening, June 9 at the county court house in Kingston, at which time applications for teachers and a clerk will be considered, and the actual operations of the cooperative services laid out. The trustees have pledged themselves to work with the Cooperative Services Board.

The meeting was well attended by trustees from practically all the areas in the district. Those present from the town of Rosendale were Ferdinand Fiedler, Rosendale village; Arthur Wirth, Tillson; and Earl Mack, acting for Mrs. Mary Mack, trustee of the Whiteport school. Creek Locks, Maple Hill and Cottletill schools, while not represented at the meeting, had previously subscribed to the cooperative service plan. There are now approximately 15 cooperative service boards functioning satisfactorily in New York State, with additional ones in the process of formation.

Milk Oil Production

Shown at Area Farm

Rosendale, June 6—A demonstration of the production of milk oil was conducted by North Milk Industries, Inc., of New York, at the pilot plant located on Half Moon Farm, Tillson, Thursday. Edward White, plant manager, was in charge of operations. The demonstration was attended by 35 representatives of various companies interested in the production and marketing of the product. The demonstration was followed by a luncheon at Sportsmen's Park, Rosendale. Dr. Charles E. North, president of North Milk Industries, Inc., introduced the guests, and gave a brief summary of the importance of milk oil. He stated that the largest industry in the world is the milk industry and the world is supplied with only about half of its milk requirements due to the perishability of milk products, which makes the milk industry a localized business. "The solution," Dr. North said, "is dehydration." At the present time only approximately five per cent of the milk supply is dehydrated. Dr. North explained that "the product of North Milk Industries is the result of intensive scientific study and experimentation over a long period of time, in an effort to remove the air and water from the original product without damage, thereby insuring more natural flavor, better keeping qualities, and cheaper transportation." Both the milk oil and powdered milk as produced by the North Milk Industries processes do not require refrigeration for shipment or storage. Other speakers included Selden H. Hall of Poughkeepsie, designer of the machinery used by North Milk Industries, Inc.; I. G. Jennings, an associate of Dr. North who referred to the product as being "an improvement of milk for the benefit of people throughout the world"; and S. J. Wolff, associated with the Pevely Dairy Company of St. Louis, which company expects to go into production of milk oil in the very near future.

A large international contingent attended the demonstration, including Dr. A. Bustillos of Venezuela; O. Roig, Cuba; A. Nazario and Alfredo Casals of Puerto Rico; William Keats and Cino D. Pinto Guimaraes of Brazil; P. D. Scarr, assistant manager of Hunter Valley Co-operative Dairy Co., Ltd., and E. P. McClintock, assistant grade commissioner, both of Australia; Dr. F. H. McDowell, chief chemist of Dairy Research Institute of New Zealand; Mrs. Edith L. Stewart, Mexico, the only woman representative from the Texas Good Neighbor Commission; and from Java, Oei Jong Bik, Oei Tjong Yan and Oei Ling Bian. The main interest of these representatives, as explained by W. P. Kessel, speaker for the group, is to obtain for their countries, where there is little or no milk products available for the majority of the inhabitants, milk products as nearly identical with those served in the City of New York as possible. Ice cream served at the luncheon was made by the Cardini Company of Long Island with milk oil which had been in storage for a year and milk powder which had been in storage for two years.

Three Are Killed At All-Night Party

Chicago, June 6 (AP)—An all-night birthday party ended yesterday morning with the fatal shooting of three celebrants and wounding of another.

Police Lt. Daniel Ahern said a former Alcatraz prisoner, Thomas Holden, 52, is sought for questioning. The shooting was in his Southside apartment and his wife, Lillian, 35, is one of the dead.

Others killed were Ray Griffin, 37, a truck driver, and John Archer, Jr., 35, a Board of Trade weightmaster. Griffin's wife, Elva, 34, was shot in the left side and face but is expected to recover. Griffin was a brother of Mrs. Holden, and Archer was her half-brother.

Ahern said that Joseph Grady, 28, a salesman and guest of honor at the party, told him the Holdens had quarreled en route home from a tavern.

The bodies were found a short time later when neighbors who heard shots in the apartment called police.

Ahern said Holden was sent to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., in 1928 for participating in a $130,000 train robbery in suburban Evergreen Park. He escaped from Leavenworth but was recaptured and sent to Alcatraz. He was paroled in 1947.

AGREEMENT ALL BUT HOPELESS

Barring the unforeseen, an agreement at Paris between Russia and the West on German unity and peace terms is apparently impossible.

Russia has rejected the western powers' plan for a Germany united under the Bonn constitution adopted by the western zones of the country.

France, Britain and the United States have turned down the Soviet Union's proposal for an all-German state council to handle economic and "government" matters subject to veto by a revived four-power control agency. One nation could dictate a veto.

There is no surprise in these developments. In her self-imposed isolation, Russia sometimes misjudges the likely western response to her moves. But she must have had no illusion that the West would accept German unity of the sort she might propose. The plan she actually offered at Paris was not even taken seriously as a program for unity.

By the same token, the western nations must have had no genuine hope that Russia would accept the Bonn constitution as a basis for cementing all Germany. It would mean un-Russian freedoms in the eastern zone, plus a merciless spotlight on Soviet activities there.

If these things are so, why did Russia seek the Paris conference?

Western spokesmen believe the continuing sessions will show her true goals to be much more limited than the basic German issues. They think she wants better East-West economic arrangements in Germany. The Soviet zone suffered badly from the western counter-blockade; it needs western trade.

Other relatively minor gains may come out of the conference. And Russia is of course not blind to its value as a propaganda springboard.

We have learned from the discussions thus far that the lifting of the Berlin blockade marked no drastic shift in Russia's policy or attitude toward the West. Foreign Minister Vishinsky may smile and clown, but his words are no more conciliatory than were Molotov's at London 18 months ago.

To reach an accord among nations, as among individuals, you must first have a will to agree on the part of all. There is no sign whatsoever that Russia desires agreement on fundamentals in Germany.

Even if she did, there could be little confidence of major progress under present circumstances. For this is a clash between two systems of thought—communist and democratic. The two seem as repellent to each other as oil and water.

SENTIMENT FOR ECONOMY

One of the most significant developments in Washington during the past several weeks has been the growing sentiment for economy. This growing sentiment for economy is reflected in the cuts being made in some appropriations which now come to the floor of the House of Representatives.

There are probably several reasons for this change of view about economy in Washington. Some of the statesmen have been hearing from the people back home and find that folks are not as spend-happy as some of the New Dealers would like to have us believe. Furthermore, the economic situation in the nation is now conducive to exercise of caution in the spending of the public money. Most sound statesmen believe that if we raise taxes now we will accelerate the pace toward a depression. If spending continues and taxes are hiked then we will face a federal deficit which would be even worse. Hence the cry for more caution in letting loose of public funds.

Senator Byrd of Virginia says Congress could wreck this country by ordering deficit financing to meet a fiscal crisis which he believes is coming next year. He points out that the federal payroll is skyrocketing, despite the warning signals, increasing on an average of $750,000 every day, and calls on the administration to fire a half-million payrollers who could be spared without inter-

MEDICAL EDUCATION

The standards for medical education and for hospitalization are set by the private medical schools, the voluntary hospitals and the organizations of physicians and surgeons in their various specialties. There was a time when there were various grades of medical schools from the diploma mill type which taught nothing to what is today regarded as a Grade A school. Practically speaking, all medical schools are today Grade A, but there are not too few of them and, therefore, there are not enough seats for those who aspire to this calling.

Modern medical training goes back to the Flexner Report of 1910, which laid the new basis that is now standard for the entire country. To support these fine standards, gifts amounting to $250,000,000 were made by the Carnegie, Rockefeller and other foundations and individuals to medical education.

This phenomenal progress, which commenced in 1910, has been halted by a series of events, the first of which was the depression, which resulted in the medical schools losing one-third of their income from endowments and a sharp, almost catastrophic cessation of giving.

Then came the war, which took so many men out of medical life into the armed forces that an inadequate number remained for training as junior medical teachers. But worse than that was "accelerated education," the speed-up in learning which, while saving time, left the student inadequately trained. Also, pressure was put upon the schools to accept more students than they could care for. This pressure became a nightmare after the war under the GI Bill of Rights, for the schools had no opportunity to build up teaching staffs, to meet veteran demands.

Then came the inflation, which reduced the purchasing power of remaining endowments. In 1948, the income from endowments amounted to about half prior to 1932. Furthermore, it has become increasingly difficult to attract full-time teachers of the highest qualifications, at the salaries medical schools can afford to pay.

The figures on the cost of medical education are taken from an address by Dr. Alan Gregg, director for the medical sciences of the Rockefeller Foundation. The current annual operating expenses of all 78 medical schools totaled approximately $51,000,000 with an enrollment of 22,000-odd students. The offsetting income to sustain these expenses under the following heads: From tuition $12,800,000, or approximately 24 per cent; from endowments $7,000,000, or 14 per cent; from other private sources $13,700,000, or 27 per cent; and finally from the taxpayers in the form of state aid $17,500,000, or 35 per cent. These figures, when broken down to a per-student basis, indicate an average tuition of $550 against an average cost of $2,200 a student per year.

Two dangers lurk in these figures: One is that medical schools will be forced to lower their standards, increase their tuition or close down; the other is that an increasing number of those schools will be taken over by the state. At present, there are 34 publicly supported schools and 44 privately endowed institutions. Practically all the outstanding medical schools, those with the greatest reputations, are the privately endowed schools which set the standards of all medical institutions. It is already clear that the financial weakness of the privately endowed schools is producing an unwholesome condition in the entire medical field.

Harold Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, emphasized this point when he said: "... the private medical schools are guardians of medical and academic freedom and accept the responsibility to maintain the highest possible standards of learning in that specialized and important field of education."

Among many suggestions for the improvement of medical education is the granting of federal scholarships. But that is not sound because there are not too few students; there are actually too many for the facilities available, and scholarships, unless they are all out of line, do not increase the school's income, but as the figures indicate, add to the school's deficits. Herbert Hoover's remarks on this subject are pertinent:

... a determined effort should be made to bring adequate financial support to the medical colleges; such support is essential to augment their capacity for training an increasing number of highly qualified doctors and thus raise the national health standards."

DISEASE CARRIERS

A strong, vigorous young man consulted his physician because of a sore or irritable throat. He was not sick, pulse and temperature were normal, but he was "annoyed" by a constant hacking cough which kept his throat sore and irritable.

Although the physician could discover nothing more than the "redness" of the throat, he took a swab and found organisms of diphtheria. The patient, after a short stay in the hospital, was allowed to go home. It was what is known as a "carrier" of disease, just as we have the history of carriers of typhoid and other diseases.

A disease carrier, such as one carrying diphtheria organisms in his throat, is free of symptoms but can infect those with whom he comes in contact. This makes it necessary for him to be isolated or quarantined just as those who have an active infection, with various symptoms present.

It can be readily understood that a strong, healthy individual who is not at all sick will vigorously object to being kept away from the other members of the family, and it is therefore not surprising that some of them "break" quarantine and are thus a serious menace to others.

Physicians and the public generally will welcome the news that a method of quickly killing the diphtheria germs, in the great majority of cases, recently has been discovered. Dr. J. T. Vander Werff, Amsterdam, reports a method he has used in 110 cases of diphtheria carriers during the past four years. He uses X-ray treatment of a certain strength and distance from the skin, first on one side one day and then on the other side the following day. In all of the 110 patients, the diphtheria organisms (bacilli) were found in the throat three weeks after the symptoms had disappeared.

With these short X-ray treatments, 90 per cent of the diphtheria carriers became negative (organisms killed) within two weeks, whereas of the patients not treated by X-ray only 30 per cent became negative within the two weeks. It is likely that X-ray treatment will free "carriers" of other diseases.

fering with legitimate government service. Bureaucracy, he charges, is getting out of control, and total civilian employment is still more than twice its pre-war peak.

It also is pointed out that the Federal Government had a deficit of over a half-billion on April 1 brought about by a drop in tax receipts and an increase in government spending. Thus, after all, Uncle Sam may end the fiscal year with a sizeable deficit. Most economists now do not believe a tax increase is the way out. And so the sentiment for economy is growing around Washington.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington — Several hints have leaked to the public about a mysterious, dramatic debate over the B-36 inside the Senate Armed Services Committee. This column is now able to report the full details of this sensational meeting. It was even more dramatic than rumored, though the B-36 did not occupy the center of the stage.

What happened was that Chairman Tydings proposed that his Armed Services Committee select a group of impartial civilians to evaluate our entire air program, especially as to whether we were developing the right type of plane.

The astute senator from Maryland argued that military services should not be allowed to sit in judgment on themselves, so he proposed that the air program be reviewed by a group of civilian advisers completely divorced from the military.

Tydings did not say so, but the Glenn Martin Company of Baltimore, biggest airplane manufacturer in his state, together with Fairchild, which manufactures in Hagerstown, Md., have obtained dwindling orders since the war. Martin, which makes planes, has felt particularly out in the cold.

Questions on Air Strength
Tydings had prepared a searching list of questions to be asked by the proposed review board. And some senators felt these questions bordered on secret information—such as design, performance of war planes, targets to be hit in Russia, etc.

Tydings also proposed that the findings of the Review Committee be made public, and it was this aspect of disclosing strength and strategy which made other members of the Armed Services Committee boil. As a result, the meeting ended in a verbal le verbal 4th of July.

Senator Chan Gurney of South Dakota, the committee's former G.O.P. chairman, was the first to challenge Tydings' procedure. He moved that Tydings' list of questions be taken up with the Secretary of National Defense and that Louis Johnson be called before the committee and asked whether the idea was worth while.

This, Tydings snapped back, had already been done. He had talked to the Secretary of Defense on his own.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas then suggested that if air plans were to be evaluated, the Senate committee should do the same thing for tanks, ships, airplane carriers and all other branches of the service.

This idea didn't clock with the gentleman from Maryland, and the debate got hotter. At one point, gentle Lyndon Johnson challenged:

"The chairman is too arrogant about things." "Well, the chairman is really trying to serve the committee," shot back Tydings.

Tydings Fumes

Finally, the committee agreed to Gurney's motion that Secretary of Defense Johnson be called before the committee, at which point Tydings blew up. He shouted that he wouldn't permit it.

"The committee has voted on this," remonstrated Johnson of Texas, "and the chairman has got to do it."

Tydings retorted that he didn't propose to do anything of the kind.

"You aren't the whole committee," barked Johnson. "You're just the chairman."

"Well, they're my questions," snapped Tydings, referring to the list of questions on strategy and air strength he proposed to ask the board of review. "And you're not going to have them."

Whereupon he adjourned the meeting. Despite Tydings' objection the committee did call Secretary Louis Johnson to an executive session. But Johnson begged off from expressing an opinion on Tydings' proposed air-strength questions. He said he would have to take them up with the joint chiefs of staff.

"I have to live up to unification like everyone else," he explained.

Lady And The Tiger

Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois says the victory of young Franklin Roosevelt over the Tammany Tiger requires revision of the old limerick about the lady who rode on a tiger, only to be devoured. In that verse: "They returned from the ride With the lady inside And a smile on the face of the tiger."

But Senator Douglas now proposes a new version: "There was a young lady from Niger Who rode on a Tammany Tiger. They returned from the ride With the tiger's skinned hide Draped over the lady from Niger."

From the Diplomatic Pouch
Chief reason Ralph Bunche, the negro diplomat, turned down an offer to be assistant secretary of state was race discrimination in the nation's capital.

The new American ambassador to Uruguay will be Christian M. Ravndal. President Truman will soon name Assistant Secretary of State Ernest Gross deputy U. S. ambassador to the United Nations. Good man. Ex-Prime Minister Tadj Suwaidi of Iraq is in Washington trying to wrangle 80 million bucks from the World Bank. He doesn't know it yet, but the bank plans to turn him down on the grounds that Iraq is a poor financial risk and is too close to Russia.

Capital News Capsules

More Asiatic Communism—The French government is preparing to rush more troops and planes into French Indo-China. Foreign Minister Schuman reported this to Secretary Acheson during an interlude of the Big Four meeting, explaining that the French cabinet has ironclad evidence the Chinese Communists are planning to move troops into Indo-China to help the Communists who have been battling the French there for years. Acheson has okayed the French scheme even though it will weaken the defenses of western Europe at a critical time.

Chinese Corruption — Dr. Hu Shih, former Chinese ambassador to Washington—and thus personal envoy of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek—recently told newsmen that Chiang's regime was "decadent and corrupt." The frank and disarming ex-ambassador, who is a Cornell graduate, said the Kuomintang had begun as a revolutionary movement, but grew undemocratic, then corrupt, as all dictatorships are destined to do. He warned, however, against the greater danger of Communism. Having just come from North China, now in Communist hands, Hu Shih said: "This is no bamboo curtain; it is a real iron curtain, where personal freedoms are completely lost."

'Thought Control' in U. S. Has Been Officially Reaffirmed

on Radio and Television

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 6—Fantastic and surprising as it may be to most people to learn about it, "thought control" by the government of the United States has just been officially reaffirmed over both radio and television.

The Russians have been pointing to alleged hypocrisy in the United States on the subject of government control of thought, and when they read a copy of the latest decision by the Federal Communications Commission they will find a most persuasive confirmation of their claim.

For the F.C.C. flatly says that the first amendment to the Constitution, which declares that Congress shall make no law abridging freedom of speech, does not apply where the government itself issues a license for a facility. This could conceivably lead to all sorts of controls.

Thus the government issues a license to publications which wish the second-class mail privilege and denies it to those who do not conform to specified requirements set forth by Congress. Up to now the government has never evaluated the contents of each publication shall be. It has merely defined general classes of publications as to their bulk or mechanical characteristics. If it is constitutional however to condition the issuance or revocation of a license for a radio or television station on whether the owner of the station presents what a partisan political administration decides is a "fair" or "unfair" or a "balanced" program on current controversial issues, then the day is not far distant when the government may claim the same legal right to regulate in detail the contents of other media of public expression as a condition of use of a license or facility.

The decision by the F.C.C. is an amazing piece of bureaucratic writing and one reads therein some incredible instructions to radio stations as to how they should "balance" their programs and what they should editorialize or "over-editorialize." Nowhere is there any standard prescribed that a station owner really can follow. In fact it is emphatically disclaimed that there can be any such standard or formula and the commission takes refuge in the vague promise that if the station owner has made a "reasonable" effort to be fair, nothing serious will happen to him.

But is it free speech for a station to be told that it must submit its thoughts, motives and past expressions to a political administration for review whenever its license is up for renewal?

Not long ago President Truman told this press conference that there were good and bad lobbies—and that those which supported his legislative program were, of course, good and in the public interest. Mr. Truman appoints and removes the members of the Federal Communications Commission. Republican and Dixiecrat owners of stations had better learn promptly the new goose steps of conformity.

It must be said that the F.C.C. opinion does endeavor to set forth in an academic way how a station could be fair and what are some of the pitfalls that may be encountered in refusing facilities to one side or the other on a controversial issue. But the more the commissioners protest that they will not be arbitrary and will not punish a station if it makes a "reasonable" effort to be fair, the more emphatically the document claims the constitutional right to ignore the first amendment.

The commission boldly defends its right to "constitutional abridgment" on the ground that there is a limited number of licenses and that regulation is necessary to prevent "chaotic interference." What the commission distorts is the original language of Congress which specified that licenses were to be issued on the basis of "public interest, convenience and necessity." The late Chief Justice Hughes in a decision in behalf of the Supreme Court of the United States interpreted that phrase to mean an allocation to prevent mechanical collisions on wavelengths and to assure that stations were properly equipped from technical and financial standpoints so as not to waste the license that someone else might use to better advantage for the community. Mr. Hughes in his famous decision implied that program content was part of a station's ownership by a governmental agency and, of course, under the customary limitations of libel or obscenity or fraud.

If the commission wishes it could accept the Hughes doctrine. But it chooses instead to assert the bureaucratic right to determine what is or is not fair in politics and public controversies. Once Hitler proclaimed that all the judges of Nazi Germany were to decide cases "fairly" on the basis of "public sentiment," the F.C.C. ruling says the same thing in another way.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Bill Jordan brought in a write-up and photo from Poughkeepsie New Yorker covering Captain William Atkins, formerly of this section, who had had the deck beneath his feet from the time he was 12 until he was 80. Young William Atkins, according to Fox Holden, Jr., the Poughkeepsie interviewer, began his life as deckhand or towboat "Thomas Miller" plying the length of the Rondout Creek in the days when the riverboats were as common as the horse and carriage.

Peter Atkins, his father who was connected with the cement industry here built a small boat to take his wife and son for short trips on the creek. The wife died of Rondout and then back home to Eddyville. It seemed that so many of their friends wanted a "ride too" that Peter built the "Henrietta" and hired two men to run it. Then he sold her and built the "Thomas Miller," on which 12-year-old William Atkins got his start. It seems the "Miller" was sort of a taxi-boat which picked up passengers along the creek who waved and bellowed, many of them passengers off the "Mary Powell" who wanted to get home to their Rondout Creek stop. Then Peter Atkins had a tugboat named "Phil Hoffman" which hauled cargoes of brick until bought by a New York concern. There was also the "Lewis D. Black" said to be the first passenger-freight steamer to ply between Rondout and Poughkeepsie. The "Black" could only hold 375 passengers and could hardly keep up with the volume of passenger trade at that time. Then boat-builder Peter Atkins gave her a sister steamer "The Countant" which he took over. Captain William Atkins, 25 years of age, then ran the "Black" for two years. But later took charge of the "Countant."

But young Peter wasn't satisfied. He wanted to learn first-hand about the swells and currents of the world's largest port, New York Harbor. He took a job as pilot, second in position to the master's rating, he held on tug named "William Henry Walker."

Two boat-builders, Moses W. Collier and George Terwilliger at that time launched the "Commodore," the latest in excursion ships and young Captain William Atkins captained it for 13 years up and down the Hudson. Then came new decks, four years with the "Commodore," a year with the "Ossining," 11 years with the "Gausman" and seven more with the "Greene." Autos, trucks and buses were gradually beginning to run strong competition along the banks, and so ended the gaiety of the Hudson and Rondout Creek excursion boats, yachts and pleasure barges. Captain Atkins now resides in Poughkeepsie.

Also received a poem from J.H.W., who says it is about 84 years old, having been printed in Kingston just before the Civil War ended, around 1865. It's called "Paddy's Fight with the

By BILLY ROSE

First chance I get, I intend to pitch it over to Fifth avenue and buy my wife a wrist watch with a lot of those little red stones.

What's that you say? Didn't I ever buy Eleanor a timepiece in the ten years we've been together? Sure, I did, and a mighty trim little ticker it was, too, but she lost it while we were in Jerusalem last March and—well, if you don't mind, I'd like to give it to you jewel by jewel and tick by tick.

In the Holy City, as soon as I learned that the Mark Ethridge who headed up the Peace Conciliation Commission was the same Ethridge who publishes the Louisville Courier-Journal, I gave the gentleman a ring and wangled an invitation for us to lunch with him at the King David Hotel where he was stopping.

Well, what happened at the luncheon was what always happens when two visiting firemen from the same hook-and-ladder company meet up far from home and, the next thing Eleanor and I knew, our bags were being moved into the King David hotel and we were discussing dinner plans.

Along about 9 that evening, we found ourselves in front of a platter of pot roast in the squat, low-ceilinged dining room of the Eden where a couple of hundred Israeli soldiers and their girls were dancing to the music of a fiddle, a squeeze-box and a beat-up piano. And from the kitchen and happy-looking that was going on it wasn't hard to tell which side had won the war.

During dinner, Ted Lurie, editor of the Palestine Post, joined our party and introduced us to several of the soldiers whose battle-field high-jinks had already become part of the new nation's legendry, and I was especially taken with a 27-year-old colonel named "Motka" Mielich who, fighting what he called a "stop-watch war," had captured all of Galilee in 70 hours. Eleanor's favorite, however, was a tough-looking sergeant in his sixties, white of beard and hair who, according to Lurie, refused to be mustered out because he thought he ought to stick around "just in case."

Around midnight, a lad who looked like Danny Kaye got up and began to sing an Israeli song—the one about nighttime on the Negev—and, as the whole room joined in, even those of us who had no personal interest in the land they were singing about felt the excitement cozing into our eyes and ears and bubbling around in our blood. And it was one for the book to see Ethridge, a Kentucky gent from way back, beating time on the table with his fist and exclaiming, "Boy, isn't this something!"

As the song ended, a soldier and his girl got up and went into the Eden—an ancient folk dance that looks like a cross between hillbilly hoe-down and a conga. A circle formed itself around the dancing twosome, and then a circle around the circle, and soon everyone was beating it out and chanting as they stomped in time with the music. And, for the next 40 minutes, 400 people, arms and emotions locked, let off enough steam to power the 20th Century all the way to Chicago. Make that 399 for, in a corner of the room, the white-haired sergeant stood watching the frolic and wishing, I suppose, he were as young as he felt and had a girl to shake an ankle with. And then, Eleanor, seeing the old boy standing there alone, suddenly ducked out from behind the table and, before you could say, "Ben Gurion," had kicked off her shoes, socked arms with the pugnacious patriarch and was dancing plumb square in the middle of the circle. And there, for the rest of the dance, she jumped, whirled and yipped while the Hora-happy crowd, made even happier by the sight of the pugnacious kid from Brooklyn, kept beating it out and whooping it up around her.

It was past 2 when Ted Lurie drove us back to the King David and, about six months back, I said said cautiously, "It's an old Chinese proverb."

"Well," said my missus, "wouldn't it be a lot easier for a girl to know how late it was if she had a watch?"

"It would," I said, "but the proverb doesn't go for little girls who go around losing valuable timepieces."

"About six months back," I said, "I filed out a slip reporting the loss to the insurance company but, when I asked Eleanor to sign it, she said, 'I wouldn't try to collect if I were you. Strictly speaking, I didn't lose the watch.'"

"What happened to it then?" I asked. "Well," said Eleanor, "do you remember that night in Jerusalem when I was dancing the Hora with those soldiers? In the middle of the dance, I felt the clasp on my watch come loose, but I did nothing about it. I suppose I could have yelled for them to stop, but these kids were having a wonderful time and I just didn't have the heart to break it up."

"And so you let them stomp on it with their boots?" I said. "I guess so," said Eleanor, and there was more so-what than so-sorry in her voice.

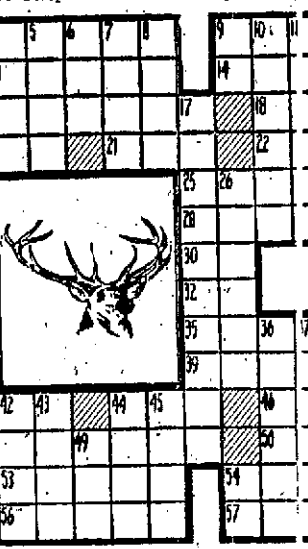

Well, I'm sure you all agree that my wife ought to be taught a lesson she won't forget in a hurry and unless someone comes up with a better idea, I figure the most fitting punishment is for me to buy one of those watches with a lot of little red stones and slap her right across the wrist with it. The Rev. Mr. Haynes portrayed Adam in the original production of Green Pastures and was so well remembered that the producers immediately sought him for the new Playwrights Company presentation. The play will be produced next fall.

Liberals Get Lead

Bogota, Columbia, June 6 (AP)—The Liberal party took a slim lead today in early returns from yesterday's congressional elections. More than 1,000,000 votes were believed to have been cast in the elections. Balloting was quiet and orderly despite the fever of the campaign in which Liberals and Conservatives blamed each other for killings and other violence. Results from 25 communities in 10 of Colombia's 15 states showed the Liberals with a total of 32,132 votes and the Conservatives with 30,768. The returns did not include the larger cities, normally Liberal.

Cousin DAZZLE Says

"Every baby born unto the world is a flower one than the last." I like that quotation from Nicholas Nickleby by Charles Dickens.

Nothing's quite so much fun as caring for a new baby. What excitement for all. And what extra work for mother. Specially Dazle! But they're easy to do if you use Dazle Bleach in your soaking water. Rinse them in pure water, though.

Sponge off baby's mattress and crib with a cloth soaked in a mild Dazle solution. It's an effective germicide as well, to keep baby's room sanitary and fresh.

To refresh the air in a nursery or sick room put a few drops of oil of lavender in a cup of boiling water. It will help get rid of flies too.

Dazle Bleach has a checkered red and white label that you'll see in every good grocery. Dazle comes in quart and half-gallon economy sizes for your convenience.

They say that maiden ladies make the best nurses. I've often wondered why. Maybe babies are born just so maiden ladies will have someone to love.

Actress Is Treated For Shock, Head Injury

Chicago, June 6 (AP)—A smoke-filled apartment and a bump on the face sent actress Beatrice Lillie to a hospital yesterday for treatment of mild shock.

The star of the musical "Inside

Miss Lillie, who in private life is Lady Peel of England, said her apartment was full of smoke when she awoke about 6:45 a. m.

Because she has no understudy for her part in the play, last night's performance was cancelled but she was expected to be back on stage tonight.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The hotel-estimated damage at $5,000.

Chandler Reinstates 'Outlaws'; Players Set for Quick Return

Mickey Owen Headed For Brooklyn Dodgers

By JOE IVES

Washington, June 6 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler's abrupt reinstatement of the Mexican League jumpers was received with mixed reaction last night and this morning.

Chandler extended an offer late yesterday to major and minor league players who skipped to Jose Pasquel's outlawed Mexican League three years ago to reinstate them in organized baseball if they so desire.

They had been barred by the commissioner in 1946 for five years after accepting large bonuses and salaries to play below the border. Many of them now are playing on Canadian teams since Pasquel stopped offering the huge inducements.

No Formalities

Chandler said the players need only apply to the president of their respective leagues—Ford Frick of the National League and Will Harridge of the American League.

Minor league boss George M. Trautman said last night he will reinstate "the four or five players" who went to Mexico.

The players who were reached expressed extreme delight over the action. However, it was learned that the three players who now have suits pending in New York's Federal District Court for damages suffered by Chandler's suspension order plan to continue their actions.

Gardella Adamant

Former New York Giant outfielder Danny Gardella is suing organized baseball for $250,000 and two former St. Louis Cardinals pitchers—Max Lanier and Fred Martin—are suing for $2,500,000 from the Cards. Both suits are based on the legality of baseball's "famed" reserve clause. This clause in effect makes the player the property of his club until he is released or traded.

Chandler, in a formal statement, said his action was taken at this time "because, after three years, it seems a fair thing to do, and because the threat of compulsion by court action now has been removed by recent unanimous decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in the Martin and Lanier and Gardella cases." The court recently refused to order the players reinstated.

No Koster Changes

Chandler did not specifically state what provision will be made because of the 25-player limit now in effect on all clubs. But he indicated the players would "get a fair chance to remain in the major leagues."

The Washington Senators will be able to pick up their two men because they are carrying only 23 players. The New York Giants, however, would have 33 if the eight players concerned apply for reinstatement, because Manager Leo Durocher now has the full quota of 25.

Owner Branch Rickey said the Dodgers have room for one player, but the remainder of the club are up to the limit now.

The Lineup

The players known to be affected by the commissioner's action, their ages and respective clubs are:

New York Giants—Pitchers Adrian Zabala, 32; Sal Maglie, 32; Harry Feldman, 29; and Ace Adams, 35. Infielders Roy Zink, 32; Nap Ryes, 29; and George Gardella, 32. Outfielder Danny Gardella, 29.

St. Louis Cardinals—Pitchers Lanier, 34, and Martin, 33. Infielder Klein, 36.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Catcher Mickey Owen, 33, and outfielders Luis Olmo, 29, and Roland Gladu, 36.

Philadelphia Athletics—Outfielder Roberto Estellella, 38.

Washington Senators—Outfielder Roberto Ortiz, 32, and infielder Chico Gonzalez, 32.

Detroit Tigers—Infielder Murray Franklin, 33.

Philadelphia Phillies—Outfield-

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

The home run socking New York Giants lead the pack today in another tinging National League pennant race. Yet everybody is watching those old stretch runners—the St. Louis Cardinals.

Not given much of a chance because of their aging veterans and lack of reserves, the Redbirds have surprised one and all by picking up steam at a time nearly everyone believed they'd wilt.

Two weeks ago—after the first half of a May 22 doubleheader—they were in seventh place, a half step out of the cellar. Now they are in fourth place, only a game and a half behind the pace-setting Giants.

During the two-week stretch, the Cards have won 11 of 13. They've captured four of their last five, against the toughest kind of opposition—Brooklyn and Boston—all on the road.

The Cards made it two in a row over Boston yesterday, defeating the Braves, 5-1, and dumping them into second place, a half game behind the winning Giants.

Al Brazier spaced eight hits for his sixth victory.

The Giants went into first place with a 6-1 victory over Cincinnati. A two-run first inning homer by Sid Gordon, followed by Walker Cooper's four-bagger with two on, gave Pitcher Larry Jansen a wide margin.

The cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates dropped Brooklyn into third place, a full game from the top, defeating the Dodgers in a 10-inning tussle, 5-4. Ralph Kiner's 13th homer of the season broke up the overtime battle.

Borowy Wins

Philadelphia and Chicago divided a doubleheader, the Phils winning the opener, 7-2, and the Cubs coming back to eke out an 8-7 triumph in the nightcap.

Right hander Hank Borowy pitched a five hitter in the first game to register his third straight triumph over his former Cub mates.

The Cubs blew a 6-0 lead in the second game, but won in the ninth when Harry Walker, ex-Phil, singled, took second on a sacrifice, and scored on a full count, and scored when Andy Pafko laid down a perfect squeeze bunt.

The American League leading New York Yankees finally were beaten on the road when they split a doubleheader with the Browns in St. Louis. The Yankees made it four in a row winning the opener, 6-4, but the Browns ended an 11-game losing streak winning the second, 7-6.

The Tigers earned a split with the Boston Red Sox, coming back to win the second game, 11-5, after Boston had won the opener, 5-3. Homers by Ted Williams and Matt Batts, each with one on, helped Joe Dobson win over Virgil Trucks.

The Cleveland Indians continued to find Sunday a sad Sabbath, losing both ends of a doubleheader to the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-0 and 4-2. The A's had some sensational relief pitching by Bobby Shantz and Charlie Harris.

Eddie Joost homered in each game, his 11th and 12th of the year.

Washington and the Chicago White Sox split one-run decisions. The Senators winning the opener, 7-6, and the White Sox taking the second, 5-4. A squeeze bunt by Ed Stewart pushed across the ninth inning run that won for the Senators in the opener. Cared by a home run by Cass Michaels, the White Sox rallied to overcome a 4-1 deficit in the nightcap. Bob Kuzava pitched five scoreless relief innings for the Sox to receive credit for the second game triumph.

er Rene Montengaud, 34.

Chicago Cubs—Catcher Chico Hernandez.

Toledo (American Association team owned by Detroit)—Catcher Myron Hayworth, 33.

Montreal (International League team owned by Brooklyn)—Shortstop Stan Board.

Sacramento (Pacific Coast League)—Catcher Jim Steiner.

Danny Rourke Hurls Six-Hitter; Matzer Pounds Home Run in First

The Colonials and Stamford Pioneers slugged and hacked at each other for nearly six hours in last night's twilight-night doubleheader at municipal stadium, with the resurgent Colonials winning the opener, 5 to 1, and tying the second, 5-5 in 11 innings.

The second game was called at the end of the 11 innings because of the Colonial League's 11:50 p. m. curfew law. The series concludes tonight at 8:30 with Harry Petty pitching for Kingston.

Sore-armed Danny Rourke six-hittered the Pioneers into submission in the seven-inning opener and aided his own cause with a two-run double in the fourth.

Matzer Hits Homer

Ralph Matzer smashed a homer to deep left center, the ball rolling over the embankment, with one aboard in the fifth.

Frank Demeri failed in his bid for his fifth win in the nightcap, twice blowing leads before he was taken off the hook by southpaw Hamilton Graham with none out in the sixth.

Graham and Emil Moscovitz, ex-Bushwick, pitched brilliantly in a relief duel over the last five innings. Both permitted only three hits, although Graham was nicked for the tying run in the seventh.

Moscovitz twice fanned two men with Colonial runners in scoring position. With Murray and McNamara on second and first in the seventh, he poured third strikes past Pluchino and Graham. Again in the tenth, Graham walked and Perlmutter beat out a beautiful drag bunt past the mound with one out. Moscovitz turned on the steam to whiff Elenchin and O'Dell.

Murray Bid Fails

Gerald Murray thrilled the 400 spectators in the last of the eleven when he smacked a towering fly nearly 380 feet into the left field corner but Scotty Kaproski was waiting for it. The smash was one of four Colonial drives during the night that would have been easy homers—if the snow fence were up. O'Dell blasted two and Frank Granato the other.

Rourke lost a shutout in the seventh inning of the opener when Stein Kaproski and Russo rapped successive singles.

Kingston led 3-2 at the end of five and again 5-4 in the sixth of the nightcap but Demeri with a 4-1 record just didn't have his usual stuff. He tired and was yanked after pitching one ball to Moscovitz in the seventh.

Ham completed walking the Stamford reliever who reached second on a passed ball. Parese fanned and Moscovitz scored when Sablago's single bounced off the bag at first.

COLONIAL CAPEIS—If the

Pioneers had scored in the 11th, umpire Phil Beller would have started by Leone, catcher Pluchino's throw was cut off by Graham who trapped Bill Swicki off third base. It was obvious to everybody in the park that the former Columbia star was out by a stride.

Everybody, that is, except Beller. A jolly rhabar followed. The Colonials were rapping the ball hard to deep left and right center.

Danny Perlmutter and Johnny Elenchin kicked up a lot of traffic. Johnny drew six walks and had one hit. Perlmutter, the sweetest center fielder in the league, collected four hits in ten trips. Ralph Matzer displayed plenty of zip at shortstop and his home run was one of the top blasts of the season. He poled out three hits in eight trips. Frank Granato and Gerald Murray put plenty of wood on the ball when they connected. "Digger" O'Dell gave signs of emerging from his slump. He hit the ball solidly four times in the nightcap. Callahan pulled down one of his drives right against the transformer pole in center field, 400 feet away.

Perlmutter was alive for the first time this season. Umpires Sid Borgia and Phil Beller had a series of tiffs with Managers Laviano and

Bagatelles:

Sam Kalloch is hopeful of having Poughkeepsie High appear on the 1949-50 DUSO basketball schedule, but points out that the Blues will not see football action until the 1951 season, because of present commitments. Pete Elko shed no tears over his departure from the Colonials. The Quebec, Canada Class C nine he joined this week is front running in the Canadian-American League and the town is baseball-mad. Attendances are at an all-time peak in the province. Max Lanier, the Cardinal "outlaw" will receive $10,000 this season with the Drummond club of the outlaw Canadian League.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

It takes courage and overwhelming confidence in one's self to keep battling for a comeback like Bill Lohrman, the ex-Giant flinger out of New York. Black Bill is now trying for a berth with the Jersey City Giants. Lohrman always figured he was robbed of a successful career by a premature arm cramp and has since resolutely striven to get back into OB. The 31 crews entered in the Poughkeepsie Regatta is a new all-time record. The previous high of 29 was set last season. Stamford University, missing since 1915, will return to the Hudson. Eppie Barnes, the recently retired Colgate University baseball mentor, was a Pittsburgh Pirate teammate of Bud Cullerton's and later played many years with the Brooklyn Bushwicks. The East Kingston Red and Gun Club has selected Peter H. Rana as its representative to the State Conservation Boys Camp at DeBruce in Sullivan county. Anthony Clause is the first alternate.

Chip Shots

Did you hear about the golfer who became an anthropologist? He wanted to find the missing links. Sammy Sneed won his second PGA title because his putter was clicking. For Slammmin' Sam, his putter was a friend in need and a friend indeed. Mahlon H. Atkinson, Jr., son of Dr. Mahlon H. Atkinson of Catskill, a golf star at Hotchkiss Prep, is entered in the Wolcott's Roost Country Club tournament in Albany on June 17, 18, 19. Maurice Davenport, Wiltsyck and city golf champion, is proud of the sensational K.H.S. golf squad which boasts six straight wins. Coach Russ Cunningham, a fellow trustee, is the strong, silent type but his face lights up when you mention the Maroon golfers. They return almost intact next season to haunt area high school swingers. Betty Flint captivated Twaalfskill followers with her nice form in the two-ball mixed foursome tourney. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Flint of Albany avenue, and a promising bowler, too. It occurs to us at the moment that she may also become quite a K.H.S. football rooster this fall.

IT COULD NEVER HAPPEN: Frank Stone and Burt Iaver, tournament chairmen, respectively, at Wiltsyck and Twaalfskill, have asked us to remind duffers and pros about some new golf rules that should be observed:

1. Move ball no more than one club's length in the rough.
2. Improve your lie in fairways but don't resort to use of tees unless absolutely imperative.
3. Don't depend on memory for correct scores for handicap purposes. Keep your scorecard.
4. It is impossible to concede all putts of six feet and under, especially if everyone in the foursome has to catch a train.

The Tenth Frame:

Matt McDermott's youngster, a southpaw pitcher who is property of the Boston Red Sox, is burning up the American Association. He set a new all-time A.A. record with 20 strikeouts against St. Paul and fanned 17 on opening day. He is with Louisville, a Lefty Grove in the rough, and should stick with the Sox next season. Sid Borgia of the Colonial League umpiring staff, is also one of the top basketball officials in the country. He is a three-year veteran of the Basketball Association of America. Ed Hrabcsak, Stamford fireballer, struck out 69 men in his first six games, and has a 5-1 record.

MULLIGAN MIKE SAYS: Breathes there a golfer with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, . . . those putts were just hanging on the lip of the cup. . . .

Newburgh Blasts K.H.S. Nine, 8-1

Newburgh Free Academy took advantage of a collapsed Kingston defense to trounce the Maroon, 8 to 1, in a DUSO League baseball game Friday in Newburgh.

The Academians broke open a light 4-0 pitching duel between Kingston's Ted Schwamm and N.F.A.'s John Bowman with a seven-run cluster in the sixth inning.

Singles by Tyler, Chrystal and Szell, three Maroon bobbles and a pair of walks were the principal ingredients of the rally. Bert Kuhn relieved Schwamm with the bases loaded and one run in, but couldn't improve the situation.

Bowman restricted Kingston to five safeties and struck out four. The lone run was the result of Mike Rlenzo's double, an infield out and Whitaker's long fly to center.

Dick Tyler, N.F.A.'s great all-around athlete, belted a double and single for a perfect day with the stick.

Samuel Jackson Snead, was due to arrive by plane for his practice

The approximate 7,000-yard layout is a nightmare for the golfer who can't beam his tee shots far and on a string.

Snead, off his masters-page slam, seems a logical favorite.

Caliph Takes His Bride; Get Rich Wedding Presents

Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, June 6 (AP)—Flowers, dancing and gunfire from galloping horsemen signaled completion of the marriage of the Caliph of Spanish Morocco and a tradition-defying princess early today.

The couple got about $1,000,000 worth of wedding gifts.

The bride is Princess Lal-Lal Fatima Zohora Bent Muley, 22, dark-eyed daughter of the late Sultan of Morocco, Muley Abd El Aziz, and a British mother. The Caliph is Muley Hassab Ben El Medi Ben Ismail, 42.

The actual wedding ceremony, dimming a celebration building up for six weeks, consisted of the signing of a marriage contract at the Caliph's palace. Then the new couple retired to the Caliph's private apartments.

The princess, educated in England, speaks English, French and Spanish fluently. She wore no veil, departing significantly from the traditional Moorish custom. She never covers her face. She wore flowing white satin robes, instead of the usual richly decorated Moorish dress. She also wore a silk dress when she came to the shoulders of robes of men about in favor of a motor car for the 15-mile journey to Tetuan from Tangier, in the International zone. She used the palanquin only for the last stage last night.

The Caliph met her at the palace gates. His first act was to introduce her to his 16-year-old son and heir, Muley El Mehdi, who was born to one of his consorts. The Caliph had never been legally married before. Spanish flags and lanterns of various colors decorated the city. Expenses of the celebration were paid by the Spanish government. Among the wedding was a $200,000 modern, furnished home, supplied by Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Orchestras performed on nearly every street corner as the bride rode to the palace. Men and women dancers whirled until they dropped exhausted. Then others took their places. Fireworks sounded through the night. Rifle fire from warriors on Arab thoroughbreds added to the din. Moroccan Spanish troops had all they could do to hold back the cheering crowds along the line of march.

Three Prisoners Still at Large; 11 Are Captured

Moundsville, W. Va., June 6 (AP)—Only three of the 14 hardened convicts who sawed their way out of the West Virginia State Penitentiary Friday were still at large today.

Police from West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio were pressing the search for the trio—Gerald Nolan, 19, and Eddie Starcher, 23, both under 10-year sentences, and Denver Vannest, 35, who was serving 25 years.

The 11 other inmates were recaptured within 60 hours after the spectacular, pre-dawn break from the old, thick-walled prison. Three of them, all life terms, were recaptured in Ohio yesterday by a country marshal and his cousin, Marshal James Bailey and his cousin Chalmers L. Tate "who just comes along to help out when I need him" spotted the escaped prisoners near Cadiz, O., as they drove off in a stolen car.

Marshal Bailey said he and Tate topped on his motorcycle and chased the car for six miles until it ran off the dirt road into a fence.

Shot Falls Convict

When the three life terms started running through a marshy area, Bailey said he drew his 38-revolver and fired, killing 38-year-old Otto Neff.

Tate, meanwhile, cornered 33-year-old Stanley Sheffield. The third prisoner, 36-year-old John Valyko, then surrendered when a carload of volunteer aides arrived.

Neff was taken to a Wheeling, W. Va., hospital. Doctors said his condition is critical.

Sheffield and Valyko were being held in the Cadiz jail. They have refused to be taken back to West Virginia and Warden Orel J. Skeen of the Moundsville Penitentiary said he is taking action to have them extradited.

The other eight prisoners, all of whom were recaptured Saturday, are back in the West Virginia prison.

Donna Is Accused Of Being U.S. Deserter

Burtonwood, England, June 6 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force today formally accused Donna Delbert, the cutest music hall fire-eater in Britain, of leading a double life.

The air force asserted that Donna, with her hair cut off, is Private Delbert Hill of Philadelphia, a deserter since 1945.

The provost marshal of the air force base here ordered Hill to trial on a desertion charge before a general court martial Friday morning.

The fantastic masquerade came to an end on April 7 at Newcastle. Acting on a tip from an undisclosed source, British police picked up the 36-year-old Hill at a theatrical boarding house where he stayed between turns on the stage.

Hill was hefty but fetching in women's clothing, a shoulder-length halo and plucked eyebrows. A girl assistant in the fire-eating act said she had been with him for months without suspecting the truth.

"Donna Delbert, demon fire-eater," was Hill's billing.

The air force cropped "Donna's" hair to G.I. length, outfitted him with a set of fatigues and put him in the prisoners' stockade to grow new set of eyebrows while they investigated the case.

The formal charge today followed.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Spade Sluff Will Make This Slam

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

I accepted Dan Seymour's invitation to go over to see his Saturday night radio program "Sing It Again," and I had the privilege of seeing Ray Bloch perform, and I mean perform. He not only is the leader of the orchestra, but he does the rumba and keeps the audience in laughter during the whole show.

Ray is riding high now, as he is also on Ed Sullivan's television show every Sunday night. He told me that back in 1929 he got his first real opportunity on radio, to sing and play the piano. He was very nervous, but the program was going well when he walked four big piano movers, with hammers and screw drivers.

They started to knock the legs off the piano. The announcer said,

"Shoo, we're on the air." One fellow spoke up and said, "That's got nothing to do with us, here is our order to move this piano out," and move it they did.

Ray says now if he ever gets nervous before the microphone, he just thinks back to the day they moved the piano.

However, Ray did admit that it made him a little nervous to play bridge, especially with someone he thought was good. He said he was so nervous one day when he played with one of the experts, that he let him play today's hand at six diamonds. One of the librettists said it should be played at six spades, but if you look the hand over carefully, six spades cannot be made. At six diamonds you can discard a losing heart on the fifth spade, then ruff a heart and concede a club trick.

Five Brothers Die In Fire at Home

Hazleton, Pa., June 6 (AP)—Five brothers, ranging in age from six months to 11 years died yesterday in a fire that roared through their West Hazleton home.

The coroner's office said the little boys' deaths were caused by asphyxiation and third degree burns.

The five—sons of Steven Gaizick, a coal miner—were identified as Joseph, 11; Richard, 5; Leo, 3; Thomas, 2; and Donald, six months.

Gaizick, his wife, and another son, Robert, seven, were injured in the blaze. Three other children—Aloysius, 15; Joanne, 12; and Eleanor, 17—managed to flee unhurt from the first floor.

Another son, Edward, 19, was next door with his wife and fled as his home was damaged by the flames. Three other children were not home at the time.

There was no indication of what caused the blaze, that apparently started in the kitchen. Mr. and Mrs. Gaizick and Robert were aroused by a neighbor and ran about the second floor attempting to arouse the others but were forced out onto a small porch. Overcome by smoke, each toppled 10 feet to the ground.

To Be Ordained Priest on June 11

REV. JOSEPH F. QUINN

Joseph Francis Quinn, son of Thomas Quinn of 8 Brewster street, and the late Catherine Fitzgerald Quinn will be ordained to the Roman Catholic priesthood, Saturday and on Sunday, June 12, will offer his first solemn Mass in St. Mary's Church at 11 a. m.

The ordination of Father Quinn and three other young priests will take place in "Hondrogo" at St. Mary's Church, with the Most Rev. Bryan J. McIntegaht, D.D., bishop of Ogdensburg, officiating. For Father Quinn's first solemn Mass in St. Mary's Church the deacon will be the Rev. John Flaherty and the Rev. Edward Farrelly to be sub-deacon. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, pastor of St. Mary's, will be assistant priest, and the sermon is to be delivered by the Rev. Raymond Hyland, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church, Saugerties, who attended the local parochial school as a boy with Father Quinn. The public is invited to attend the Mass.

A reception for relatives and friends is scheduled in St. Mary's School hall from 3 to 6 p. m.

Father Quinn, who was born October 4, 1918, received his early education at St. Mary's school. In 1939 he began studying for the priesthood at St. Nazianz, Wis., under the direction of the Salvatorian Fathers. After completing his minor seminary course, he was adopted into the diocese of Ogdensburg in 1944. At the conclusion of his course in philosophy at Wadsworth Hall, he was sent to St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, Md., where he completed his major studies in theology.

Historians believe that the "brass" referred to in the Bible probably was bronze.

Loss of Weight Has Its Demands, Is Research Finding

Tuscaloosa, Ala., June 6 (AP)—

How many hours must a dancer waltz to lose a pound of weight? It would take 20 1/2 hours, according to tests made in the new health and physical education laboratory at the University of Alabama.

On the other hand, a runner must run 43.2 miles at a rate of 10 miles per hour to shed a pound of flesh.

Or, if you prefer to take it easy and walk, you'd have to stroll 66 2/3 miles at a rate of four miles an hour. If none of these methods appeal to you, you can drop that pound by driving your automobile for 68 hours.

Strenuous work or exercise, like playing football or sawing wood, will take off that pound quicker. Saw wood 10 1/2 hours and the job's done, or play 4.8 hours of football and you get the same result.

The tests, a class project, were under the direction of William J. Baughman, associate professor of physical education.

60 Firemen Get Treatment After Four-Alarm Blaze

New York, June 6 (AP)—Sixty firemen were treated for smoke inhalation or minor injuries early today in a four-alarm Manhattan fire.

The blaze caused extensive damage to a 50-year-old building housing St. Nicholas Arena and a ballroom. It was still smoldering at 7 a. m. (E.S.T.).

The ballroom—Lincoln Square Center—and the arena are in West 86th street near Columbus avenue. Boxing, wrestling and other sports events and political and trade union meetings have been held at the arena for many years.

The fire started in a kitchen of the first-floor ballroom and spread underneath the floor of the second-floor arena. Burning tar composition material and beams set off heavy smoke.

The fire, discovered about 11:30 p. m. (E.S.T.), was fought for nearly three hours.

Eighteen of the affected firemen required oxygen treatment. First aid was given to others.

No one was in the building when the fire started, firemen said. A wedding reception attended by several hundred persons was held in the ballroom earlier in the evening.
